

ORIGIN

The idea for Capital Region Family Business Center (FBC) came in 2005 as the result of collaboration between local community business leaders who saw a compelling need to provide family businesses in California's North and Central state with consistent and professional resources to meet their unique needs. As contributors to the economic engine of California, these businesses were committed to forming an organization with a strong volunteer base that functioned independently to allow for fluid response and service to its dynamic membership.

Officially founded in 2007, the organization now serves approximately 68 family-owned businesses in Sacramento, Placer, Yolo, Yuba and Sutter counties.

MISSION

The Capital Region Family Business Center's mission is devoted to helping family business grow and prosper. The foundation of all FBC efforts is our core values:

- Trust - We are an open forum to share ideas and family goals among businesses in a confidential environment.
- Affinity - We are committed to serving and supporting each other as we strive to perpetuate our family businesses.
- Education - We deliver in-depth, relevant, and insightful programs for our members.
- Collaboration - We believe that family-owned businesses that engage with peers will prosper.
- Prosperity - We work together for the greater growth and success of our region.

MEMBERSHIP

Our members represent multiple generation owners and employees, and businesses in nearly every industry. A group reflective of the incredible region we call home, FBC members make up a remarkable segment of its leadership and support thousands of employees collectively.

The organization has expanded its offerings to include family forums, affinity groups to engage specific segments of the family business including presidents, founders, and CEOs; next generation leaders; and women in the family business. The FBC also offers technical programs, social events, and the Generations Conference, which collectively support the growth, prosperity and sustainable success of the region's family businesses.
